

How ScreenwritersPLUS Works

From Idea to Reality

We work with clients on a per-project basis to bring their ideas to life in the form of professional screenplays, teleplays, and novels which you can then market to agents and producers. Please note that we are not an agency or production company, and we do not seek or purchase screenplays and ideas.

We work hard to understand your vision, and we continue to work together as we translate that vision to page. And while we will always speak our mind, you're the one who has final creative say.

Step by Step

An initial consultation period is followed by the development of a treatment, a beat sheet, or an outline. These documents do similar things – they act as a summary of the entire story before the full-length project is written.

After you approve this document, the project is delivered in several phases – not just a surprise at the end – so you have input all along the way. We believe this approach is the best way to collaborate and stay on the same page, literally and figuratively.

To the Letter

Our arrangement is laid out in a brief Letter of Agreement, which includes the estimated timeline, milestones to be achieved, fees, and a Non-Disclosure Agreement (NDA) to protect your idea. The Letter also provides for the writer to receive co-writing credit alongside yourself in most cases.